

Mr Qasim Mansoor

MBBS, MRCOphth, FRCS (Ed)

Independent Practitioner

About

Mr Mansoor's professional journey began in 1997 in Lahore, Pakistan where he studied with the prestigious Allama Iqbal Medical College; 27 years later and he is a distinguished ophthalmologist serving communities in the United Kingdom.

His portfolio exemplifies his extensive proficiency in cataract and lens replacement surgery, as well as other practices of general ophthalmology, laser eye surgery and a range of refractive diseases.

A keen purveyor of learning, Mr Mansoor shares his wealth of knowledge beyond the four walls of the operating theatre. He regularly authors articles and delivers presentations, that address a range of topics in the ophthalmic industry, in medical journals across the world.

His commitment to participating in the future of the ophthalmic industry is explicit; he dedicates time to teaching the next generation of ophthalmologists through speciality training and is an examiner for the Royal College of Surgeons.

Qualifications

- Cert LRS, Royal College of Ophthalmologists London
- PGDipCRS (Distinction), Ulster University Belfast
- MRCOphth, The Royal College of Ophthalmologists London (2003)
- FRCS, Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh (2001)
- MBBS, University of Punjab, Pakistan (1997)

Professional Memberships

- The Royal College of Surgeons Edinburgh
- The Royal College of Ophthalmologists
- European Society of Cataract and Refractive Surgeons
- American Association of Ophthalmology

Languages

- English
- Hindi
- Punjabi
- Urdu

Procedure Types

- Refractive Lens Exchange and Cataract Procedures
- YAG Capsulotomy